John S. McLellan

President
Lockheed Martin Aeronautical Systems

John S. McLellan was named president of Lockheed Aeronautical Systems Company and a vice president of Lockheed Martin Corporation in March 1995. His appointment coincided with the merger of Lockheed Corporation and Martin Marietta Corporation. He had served as executive vice president of LASC and vice president of Lockheed Corporation since March 1994. Prior to this position, he was president of Lockheed Aircraft Service-Ontario since 1992.

McLellan also served as executive vice president of Lockheed Aircraft Service Company from 1989 to 1992. He joined Lockheed's Marietta, Georgia, facility in 1965 and was director of Hercules Programs prior to moving to Ontario, Calif., in 1987 as vice president of a classified program. During his years in Marietta, he worked on the C-5A project staff, in program coordination for both the C-5 and C-141, and in master scheduling on the C-130 program.

He was born in Albemarle, North Carolina, on June 7, 1941. He received his bachelor of science degree in industrial engineering from Virginia Polytechnic Institute in 1963 and his master of science degree in industrial management from the Georgia Institute of Technology in 1978. McLellan also attended Lockheed-Emory Management Institute, Lockheed Leadership Institute, Lockheed Executive Institute and Columbia University Executive Program in Business Administration. He served with the U.S. Army Reserve from 1964 to 1970.

McLellan is a member and past president of Lambda Chi Alpha, member and past chapter treasurer of the National Management Association, and member and past president of Virginia Tech Alumni Association.
