

The fixed wing aircraft is a technologically sound and militarily appropriate method of extending and applying one's tactical capabilities on the field of battle.

The rotary wing helicopter, however, is a piece of shit.