Co. A, 5/46 Inf. Holds Reunion
By Ellen Gause

A little over 50 years ago a group of young men left home, most of them drafted, to serve their country in the Vietnam War. Over the course of a year, they became best friends. After that year, they returned home to begin another life with a family, career and other ventures. In 2011 the group met for their first reunion in White Lake. Twelve members of the first platoon of Alpha Company, 5th/46th 198th Light Infantry Brigade traded stories of their lives and remembered missions they were involved in when some of their buddies were killed in action during the war during those days spent together. Some were hesitant to attend that first time.

But since that initial reunion in 2011, the group has continued to meet each fall at Oak Haven Resort in Sevierville, Tennessee. This year, 19 veterans and 12 wives joined together for a week of rekindling their friendships. They traveled to Tennessee from Texas, Michigan, Wisconsin, Florida, New Jersey, South Carolina, Missouri, North Carolina, Ohio, and Virginia. Sadness loomed over the group as they remembered six members of their platoon who have died since they first started meeting. Two passed away since the group met in 2018.

National World War One Museum
Vietnam War Exhibit
By Colonel Robert M. Dudley

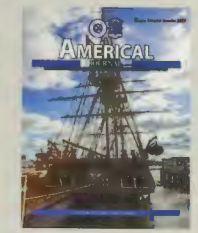

The National World War One Museum and Memorial has an exciting exhibition coming to Kansas City, The Vietnam War: 1945-1975. The Vietnam War: 1945-1975 will be on display at the National WWI Museum and Memorial's Wylie Gallery from Veterans Day, November 11, 2019 to Memorial weekend, May 25, 2020.

The traveling exhibition is on loan from the New York Historical Society, curated by Marci Reaven, VP of History Exhibitions. Topics covered in the exhibition include: the Cold War, the draft, military campaigns initiated by both sides, the growth of the antiwar movement, the role of the president and the loss of political consensus. It is free and open to the public.

We know people will wonder what WWI has to do with the Vietnam War. Due to Vietnam being a French colony, nearly 100,000 Vietnamese (Annamese) served France in WWI as soldiers, medical staff and laborers. Military wins and losses, as well as the experience of laborers working in factories and industries, contributed to a sense of national identity, which were to take root in the anti-colonial and nationalists' movements post-WWI. Vietnam's independence from France was a request made by a young man, Nguyễn Sinh Cung, at the Paris peace talks in 1919. He was ignored. His country became Vietnam, and he renamed himself Ho Chi Minh.

The exhibit along with various programs during the six months are estimated to cost $435,000. Fred and Dianne Smith, founders of FedEx and (Fred) a Vietnam veteran, have granted the Museum a $100,000 challenge grant once the Museum and Memorial raises $300,000. There are opportunities to provide financial support that will leverage the Smith's $100,000. All sponsorship levels include listing on the Exhibition Acknowledgment Panel, exclusive invitation to the VIP Opening Reception and recognition in the Museum and Memorial Annual Report. Please consider making a gift as generously as you can.

Americal Legacy Foundation Report

By Roger Gilmore, Chairman, Board of Directors

Foundation Web Site

The Foundation web site, www.americalfoundation.org, is a great source for information on Americal Division action and key battle dates. From the web site Americal History link you will find a drop down box lists the three eras of activation. From there, information specific to each era of Americal Division activation can be obtained. The information available for WWII and the Cold War era is more general and high level.

For the Vietnam Era, several detailed sources can be viewed. Issues of the Americal magazine began a quarterly publication in May 1968 in Vietnam. An index of publications available can be viewed by clicking the blue text box. The Division news sheet titled Southern Cross was distributed in country also commencing in May 1968. This was generally an eight page distribution covering stories of interest focusing on unit actions from previous weeks. Division Tactical Operations Center logs recorded the minute-by-minute activities of the units in the division. Photocopies of DTOC logs were obtained by ADVA Vietnam Historian Les Hines and other historical researchers. ADVA members Bruce Flaherty, Larry Swank, Conrad Geibel and John Boyer spearheaded the effort to collect and transcribe these reports to facilitate searches. The DTOC logs have quite a bit of detail and knowing specific dates for your search helps reduce time expended.

Americal Legacy Calendar – 2020 Edition

The 2020 edition of the Foundation calendar is included with this Journal issue mailing. The calendar is our primary source of funding for the Foundation's monument construction program. This edition is one of the best we have produced. The design is unique in terms of how layout coordinator David Taylor represents the eras of Americal Division history within each month's art image. I think all will agree this issue is truly unique. Many of you have steadfastly supported the Foundation's various monument and grant programs in past years, and we are confident that we will see that same financial support from ADVA member donations from this calendar.

Some may question why the Americal Legacy Foundation continues a program of monument placement. The answer is this monument program is our legacy and our way of educating future generations about the service and sacrifice of the thousands of Americal Division soldiers who answered the call to duty to protect our freedoms. There is no more Americal Division to continue the heritage; once we are all gone these permanent monuments are our legacy. Without the support from donors over the past years, this monument program honoring the legacy of the Americal Division in its three eras of activation would not be possible.

David is stepping down from his role as layout coordinator for the Americal Legacy Calendar. The 2020 calendar is his last. We truly appreciate his work on the calendar and will miss his fine work. The Foundation directors would like to continue the calendar issue. We need an individual to pick up the calendar pre-layout process David has done over the past years. We expect to have the fine services of Lisa Anderson available for the final layout as she has done for past issues if we find someone to do the initial layout work. If you would like to take on this responsibility, please contact I and I will put you in contact with David for more details on the requirements.

Americal Monument Programs – National VA Cemeteries

In the last issue of the Americal Journal I wrote a brief summary of the policy the National Cemetery Administration (NCA) has in place for review and approval of donations to VA cemeteries throughout the nation. The NCA issued an update to the handbook in January 2019. I've looked through the revisions to the policy (actually two different handbooks) to be sure we are in compliance with all requirements for the donor party. There are a couple of new requirements for Standardized Memorial Monuments (SMM) and we are working with the cemeteries we selected for placement to get these requirements satisfied. We are aware that the chain of approval moves slowly through the VA Cemetery system. VA Cemetery staffs have many responsibilities and reviewing monument placement proposals is likely far down the list of priorities. We continue to work with our POCs at these locations to be sure the documentation is complete and is being moved up the approval chain. Following is a recap of VA cemetery sites selected and where we stand with our placement proposals.

Massachusetts National Cemetery (Bourne, MA)

Earlier this year, Foundation Director Gary Noller contacted this national VA Cemetery with a proposal to place one of our Americal Division monuments at this site. This cemetery is near the 26th Division headquarters, to which the 182nd Infantry Regiment was assigned before being re-assigned to TF 6814 and eventually the Americal Division during WWII. Some Americal Division veterans who served with the 182nd Infantry Regiment and support units are buried here. The cemetery director here advised there is already an Americal Division monument in place at their monument walk within cemetery grounds. Gary and I made a side trip to the cemetery following the Providence reunion in October to view the monument and decide if our current monument design would be a better fit in the cemetery. After viewing the Americal Monument presentation there, we decided the monument in place is very fitting and an appropriate tribute the Americal Division's service to this country. Our decision is to not pursue replacing the existing monument with a newer version. The following picture is the Americal Division monument setting at Massachusetts National Cemetery.

Long Island National Cemetery - (Farmingdale, NY)

I received a voice mail report from the new director at this location in late September. She advised her staff is working with our proposal package to ensure we have all necessary documentation before she signs off and sends it on to the district director. My conversation in mid October with a staff member at the cemetery confirms a site is selected for our monument and our package is under review for completeness before the cemetery director signs off and sends it to the district director.

Camp Butler National Cemetery - (Springfield, IL)

We put together the additional documentation required under the new NCA policy (conceptual landscape design, contractor plan and certification of liability insurance) and emailed it to the director in late September. A response from the director advised the additional documents were received and under review by the cemetery assistant director. After reviewing our supplemental documentation, the assistant director advised we need to amend one document. At the time this article was written, we are awaiting a revised document form from the cemetery so it can be completed and returned for inclusion in the proposal package.

Rock Island Arsenal National Cemetery (Rock Island, IL)

At the time this article was written, we are awaiting a response from the district director regarding the placement package review and decision.

Washington Crossing National Cemetery (Newtown, PA)

In September, the cemetery director sent the NCA handbook update issued in January 2019 as a source document for the proposal package. We expect to get the placement proposal package for this location put together and submitted by year end 2019.

Americal Monument/Memorial Programs – Other Locations

Museum of the U.S. Army – Unit Tribute Plaque

Some slight changes were submitted to the Museum Marketing staff in August. The last communications Director

Gary Noller had from the Museum staff POC is the changes would be drafted once the vendor reviewed the renderings and confirm the changes can be done. We await word on drafting the changes.

Fort Polk, LA

Due to a lack of response from the POC (Deputy Director of Mission Training) at Fort Polk, I advised the staff there we are withdrawing our placement proposal due to a perceived lack of interest for the proposal. In mid-September, I received a response stating the post still has an interest in our monument proposal. I was given the name for a new POC for the proposal. The complete placement proposal package went to the new POC the end of September. I received assurances via email the package will be reviewed and presented to the post Memorialization Committee for review and a decision on placement. At the time this article was written, I had no response from the POC regarding any review of our proposal package.

Fort Rucker, AL

Columbus Monument Company in Columbus, Georgia completed the initial design for the monument in late September. A couple of minor revisions were submitted to Columbus Monument following our review of the proof. A revised proof came to me in mid October. The next step is preparation of the Request for Memorialization letter and accompanying documentation for the Foundation's mission. We expect the package to be submitted to the Fort Rucker Memorialization Board POC by the time this publication goes to press.

Other Foundation Projects

The Vietnam Center and Archive

In the last issue of the Americal Journal, I reported on the progress the Archive staff at Texas Tech University made digitizing the Americal Division records provided by ADVA Vietnam Historian Les Hines. Texas Tech's Archive Center reported they indexed over 4,000 items last year under the non endowed gift agreement entered into between the Foundation and the Archive Center. Les feels most all the records provided to the Archive staff has been archived. Les is now looking for volunteers to access the ADVA portal page at the Texas Tech Archive Center to confirm the records can be accessed and are complete. If you would like to participate in such a project, please contact Les at [REDACTED]. In the coming months, we will be in contact with Dr. Steve Maxner at the VN Archive Center to determine our status with the Americal project and what additional work needs to be done.

A brief video tutorial (five minutes) is now available on YouTube to assist members accessing the website to search records. The YouTube link to the tutorial is https://youtu.be/Sdv_3L2zvq4. I highly recommend viewing this tutorial before you attempt to access Americal Records via the portal. The tutorial is also available on the ADVA portal page. The new Americal portal address is [REDACTED].

The Texas Tech VN Archive staff is happy to assist ADVA members with searching and using the Virtual Archive at any time. The staff can be reached via phone [REDACTED] or email [REDACTED].

Dear editor,

I recently received the only 2/1st Inf. Bn. newsletter that I have been able to locate in over 30 years effort. It is named The Legionnaire and is dated 15 January 1970. CPT Roger Sherrard, LTC Nerone, 1SG William Gibson, Elwood Tipton, and Shirley Tipton, SSG Charles Holdaway and CPT Dwight Sypolt and several others are named in this issue. The newsletter features a Christmas story about 2/1 soldiers playing Santa at the Thien An orphanage at Tam Ky. Since this was volume 9....that means there are at least eight other issues that existed. I would like to locate them.

Les Hines; ADVA Vietnam Historian

Dear editor,

I just read your column in the newsletter. Wow! It doesn't seem like 25 years have passed since we created the americal.org website. Also, I think I need to write down some things about my service so that the next generations of my family have something more than my retirement flag and medals.

Tony Greene
 Bowie, MD

Dear editor,

There is a full size Vietnam Wall permanently installed at Perryville, Missouri. Nine members of the 1968-69 5/46 Echo Recon met there Friday June 28, 2019. It is an exact replica of The Wall in Washington, D.C. It is located at 1172 Veterans Memorial Parkway in Perryville. This is relatively close to Interstate 55 about an hour south of St. Louis. It's out in the middle of corn growing country. It is very well done and there are very professional facilities there as well. This is great for those who cannot or choose not to go Washington, DC.

John Forshag; Recon, 5/46 Inf., 1969

Dear editor,

It is with a heavy heart that I pass along the news that Dad, Colonel Clyde Tate, died shortly after midnight on August 28. He was still in the nursing home and had been without Mom for 19 days. Sadie Tate passed away on August 9. He just couldn't wait any longer to reunite with her. His passing was peaceful and quiet. His kidneys and heart began to shut down and he simply was ready. He will be buried with full honors in Arlington at a later date. I will keep you informed.

Please inform the troops. Thanks.

Butch Tate

[LTC Clyde Tate commanded 1/46th Infantry immediately after the attack on FSB Mary Ann on March 28, 1971. Thanks to Joe Wolfe, 1/46 veteran, for passing this news to me. I served under LTC Tate for about a month before I came home.]

Dear editor,

We wanted to personally thank the Americal Legacy Foundation for recent scholarship awards to my granddaughter, Rachael Paige Cruikshank. Your support and faith in Paige as a student has truly helped this young Lady achieve her dream.

Paige graduated on Sunday, May 11, 2019, with honors, receiving her AAS in Diagnostic Medical Sonography. She interviewed for a position on Tuesday of that week. Received a call on Wednesday of the same week offering her a full time position with all benefits. She began her working career at Thomas Memorial Hospital on June 3, 2019.

Thank you again Americal Legacy Foundation for investing in our nations future.

Hobert Salisbury; C Co 1/6th, 198th LIB

Dear editor,

I had the privilege to photograph the D-DAY ceremony on June 6 at the WWII Memorial in Washington, D.C. While there I met another Americal veteran-Dennis Ferk. Dennis is a WWII Army veteran who served with the Americal Division at Guadalcanal. He is in his 90s and a neat guy to talk with. He was one of the 25 WWII vets that were honored at the ceremony.

The Battle Of Kham Duc Special Forces Camp

By James D. McLeroy and Gregory W. Sanders

Review by Gary L. Noller

Kham Duc is a small village due west of Tam Ky and a few miles inside the Vietnamese border with Laos. It lies at the intersection of highways QL 14E and AH 17. AH 17 is now called the Ho Chi Minh Road and was once part of the supply route from North Vietnam to South Vietnam.

During the Vietnam War the United States Army established a Special Forces camp at Kham Duc. As the book states, "The Kham Duc SF camp had only two functions: basic training for indigenous militia recruits and occasional launches of top-secret reconnaissance-commando teams into Laos. Kham Duc had a benefit of a landing strip capable of handling C-130 aircraft. But it also had a major disadvantage in poor weather much of the time.

The North Vietnamese Army and Viet Cong suffered a major defeat in the January-February 1968 Tet Offensive. They retreated to their camps along the border with Laos and planned their next move. It was an all out attack on Kham Duc by the 2nd NVA Division and scheduled for the middle of May 1968. They wanted another siege comparable to the 1969 battles at Khe Sanh and the French defeat at Dien Bien Phu.

Once U.S. Military leaders determined the enemy's move a decision was made to reinforce Kham Duc. The Americal Division was the responsible element and quickly sent troops of the 1/46 Infantry and 2/1 Infantry. The enemy attack soon followed with heavy bombardment and ground attacks.

Shortly after the battle began the U.S. decided not to hold the base and ordered an immediate evacuation by air. The action resulted in twelve aircraft shot down including one with the loss of 183 civilians. USAF pilot Joe M. Jackson was awarded the Medal of Honor for rescuing three air traffic controllers who were misplaced on the runway at the end of the fight. It is also notable that Patrick Brady, a recipient of the Medal of Honor, also participated in the evacuation of Kham Duc.

It is estimated that 2,000 enemy soldiers were killed by massive air attacks. The U.S. Army lost one killed and 71 wounded. But the initial tally also included the largest number of missing in action of the Vietnam War. A count of 31 was eventually decreased by the return of three personnel and the determination of some to have been killed. One was taken prisoner and kept until March 1973. A related battle at nearby Ngok Tavak resulted in heavy casualties to a U.S. Marine artillery unit.

The authors contend that the base at Kham Duc was intended to draw a large force of enemy soldiers that could be dispatched by use of overpowering air bombardment. That is the reason for the title of their book. Some may disagree with the authors as controversy does not seem to be hard to find in the analysis of the Vietnam War.

Soldiering After The Vietnam War

Changed Soldiers In A Changed Country

By Glyn Haynie

Review by Gary L. Noller

Glyn Haynie enlisted in the U.S. Army on July 28, 1968 and left for Vietnam on March 10, 1969. He served as an infantryman with Company A, 3/1st Infantry, 11th Light Infantry Brigade of the Americal Division. He returned home on March 7, 1970 at the age of 19.

Haynie begins his book with a stark fact. He says, "During my one-year tour, I experienced many hardships, including the death of 13 platoon brothers and the wounding of 12, three of the 12 wounded more than once." He goes on to say, "The first time I repeated the names of the 13 killed was early morning of August 16, 1969. A squad member woke me because I was reciting the names out loud in my sleep, and he feared it might attract the enemy." He remembers the 13 to this day and their names are listed in the prologue of his book.

Many of us returned from Vietnam and left the Army. But Haynie decided to stay in the service and completed a 20 year career. He ended his service as an instructor at the U.S. Army Sergeants Major Academy at Ft. Bliss, Texas.

The Army was in turmoil at the end of the Vietnam War and many necessary changes were initiated. Haynie saw the move to an all volunteer force and the inclusion of women into a wider variety of military occupations. It was also a time of changing attitudes of Americans for the military and veterans. Vietnam veterans returned home to a country that did not appear to care for them. Some Americans were angry because the Army could not lose fast enough and other Americans were angry because the Army could not win fast enough. Haynie describes how wrong the protesters were to blame the returning veterans for their dislike of the Vietnam War.

The assignments that Haynie received included stints at Ft. Benning, Georgia; Heilbronn, Germany; and Ft. Campbell, Kentucky. In Germany his duty was to guard Pershing missiles. This was quite a change from his combat role in Vietnam. Once back in the United States he served as a drill sergeant and as a recruiter.

The descriptions in this book are of special interest to me. I separated from the Army when I returned home from Vietnam. My total active duty was for 19 months and one day. But a month after I returned home my 18 year-old brother, Greg, joined the Army. I often refer to him as my replacement. I wonder if my brother and Glyn ever met. My brother was in Germany at the same time as Glyn and also attended the Sergeants Major Academy.

The book closes with a chapter titled The Fallen. The author pays tribute to the heroes of the first platoon. Haynie states, "These 13 members of the First Platoon died protecting their brothers and their country. They are true heroes, and those of us in First Platoon who survived came home because of their sacrifice."

Herbert Brady

(Contributing Editor's Note)
This is the final edition of our 2019 series of photo images by Americal combat photographer Herbert Brady. Brady served with the Americal in Vietnam from August 1969 until September 1970. When offered the opportunity to become a combat photographer he jumped at the assignment although, being with the infantry in contact with the enemy, had its moments.

We are grateful for his service and sharing his images with the Americal veterans of the ADVA. This last issue is devoted to various additional images that will bring back memories that will never be erased from our minds.

Reunion News

By Gary L. Noller

Approximately 400 ADVA members and guests had a great time at the 2019 annual reunion held in Warwick, Rhode Island. The weather was variable but did not curtail any of the activities. Arrival on Wednesday saw a stuffy 80 degree day with much humidity. The Friday tour to Boston was much different with temperatures in the 50s and a gusty wind.

Photos of the reunion are featured on the previous pages. They were taken by PNC Dutch DeGroot and represent only a fraction of the frames that he shot.

One World War II veteran, George Watson, attended the reunion. He was in the company of his daughter and made the trip from his home in Wilmington, Delaware. George served with Co. M, 132nd Infantry Regiment. I had the opportunity to chat with him on Friday evening as he entered a local restaurant for a meal. He is a hardy soul and very congenial. The restaurant was crowded and we were squeezed into a small foyer waiting on a table to open. When I asked George if he would like to find a seat inside he simply replied, "No, I am doing just fine here." Needless to say his presence was a hit at the reunion.

Long time reunion attendees had a bittersweet reunion with Janice Gelnett of nearby Cape Cod. Janice is the widow of SGT Larry Gelnett. Larry served in the 23rd M.P. Company in Vietnam. He and Janice faithfully attended ADVA national reunions throughout the 1990s. Larry's last reunion was in San Antonio in 2000. He was as affable as ever. Unfortunately he developed lung cancer and passed away in September 2001. May he rest in Peace. A special presentation was made to Wayne and Gena Bryant to show appreciation for their many years of hard work to operate the ADVA PX. Wayne and Gena recently announced that they intend to further their retirement plans effective the end of this year. They have actively pursued the PX operation for nearly 20 years and provided a vast array of Americal items to ADVA members. Before they took over the PX the annual sales amounted to a few hundred dollars. They pushed this up by greatly expanding the number and variety of items carried in the PX. In recent years PX sales have amounted to several thousand dollars and have contributed to the financial health of the association.

The Friday tour took us to nearby Newport, Rhode Island. Newport is an old seaport and the summer home of many of the uber rich of olden days. The tour included a stop at a mansion called The Breakers. Cyrus Vanderbilt constructed the 125,000 square foot mammoth in 1893 to 1895. The abode has five floors and 70 rooms and is now owned by the Preservation Society of Newport County. Jay Leno has a massive home a short distance away and was a surprise visitor to The Breakers while the ADVA tour was present. He was happy to visit with tourists and allowed many to snap photos with him.

Newport was spared destruction by the British during the Revolutionary War and has many shops and residences that are nearly 300 years old. This property is now highly valued and well kept and is somewhat similar to other coastal port cities such as Annapolis, Maryland.

The Friday tour included a stop in Boston Harbor to visit the USS Constitution, also known as Old Ironsides. This vessel is the oldest commissioned ship in the US Navy and is kept in operating order at all times. It is incredible to note that the USS Constitution once sailed into the harbor at Tourane in present day Vietnam. Tourane is the name the French gave to the port city of Da Nang. The Americans landed in an attempt to rescue a French missionary held in a local jail.

Saturday morning business meeting of the Executive Council and General Membership were well attended. A short meeting was also held by the directors of the Americal Legacy Foundation. Several chapter groups also had formal meetings while at the reunion.

The Saturday afternoon tour took visitors to The Whaling Museum in New Bedford, MA. A full-size skeleton of a huge whale suspended from the ceiling of the museum attracted much attention. A narrated program in the museum's auditorium provided a good education about the whaling industry of the New England area.

PNC Larry Swank did a great job in making all the arrangements for the 2019 reunion. The hotel had plenty of space and was generous in using its shuttle to get reunion guests back and forth to the airport, restaurants, and other nearby attractions.

The 2020 reunion will be held in Indianapolis, Indiana from August 19 to 23. The host hotel is the Wyndham Indianapolis West and is a very short distance from the Indianapolis airport and also close to interstate highways. Chuck Holdaway is chairman and will coordinate activities through Armed Forces Reunions. Details of the reunion will be in the first quarter 2020 Americal Journal magazine and on the americal.org website.

Larry Swank has made a preliminary search for the location of the 2021 reunion. He is looking at the Southeast and has interest in the area from Savannah, Georgia to Pensacola, Florida. Weather is always a factor when planning a summer event close to the coast and this will be a prime consideration in reunion planning.

David Eichhorn has stepped up to handle planning for the 2022 reunion. Dave would like to hold the reunion in the Washington, D.C. area. The Army Museum outside Ft. Belvoir, Virginia is expected to be open by that time. It will also be the 40th anniversary of the dedication of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial. A potential host hotel in the Crystal City area near the Pentagon is under consideration.
