Dear Dean Taggart:

After careful consideration of your kind offer to have me participate in your overseas Vietnam Project, I regret that I cannot make my services available now or in the immediate future.

In the long range, I feel that I must return to academic life and re-establish myself there for at least a period of one or two years before I can consider an assignment of the nature which you so generously have offered me.

Nevertheless, I do very much appreciate your confidence that I could make a significant contribution in this area and should there be opportunity in the next fiscal year for a short-range (three months) assignment in the Vietnam Project, I would be interested, providing the exigencies of my present assignment are such that I could accept.

Thanking you again for the opportunity to become a part of a most significant educational experience and regretting that I am, unfortunately, not in a position to act affirmatively at this time, I am

Sincerely yours,

James W. Miller
