OFFICE MEMORANDUM

TO: Dr. Musolf, Chief Advisor
FROM: Ralph Turner
SUBJECT: Visit to Taiwan

DATE: August 16, 1960

My trip to Taiwan has come about as the result of MSU/EL School of Police Administration's relations with the National Police College of China during the past several years. MSU/EL has trained a number of participants from Taiwan. Mr. Brandstatter was asked to visit the National Police College on his way to Saigon this spring. At the time of this visit, the Director of the National Police College suggested to Mr. Brandstatter that explorations be made into the possibility of exchanging faculty members for short periods between MSU/EL and the National Police College. The Director of the College indicated that the Asia Foundation might possibly be interested in supporting such a program. As a result of this initial contact, arrangements have been made for Turner to visit the faculty of the National Police College at Taiwan and discuss the matter in detail. This trip is being financed by the Asia Foundation.

The Director of the National Police College has further indicated that ICA officials are also interested in discussing this matter with Turner at the time of his visit.

Mr. Arthur Z. Gardiner, Director
United States Operations Mission
Saigon, Vietnam

Dear Mr. Gardiner:

In accordance with the terms of our contract with ICA, permit me to give you prior notification of international travel by Mr. Ralph Turner, Chief of the Police Administration Division, and myself.

At some time in September Mr. Turner intends to go to Taiwan for about a week. His trip will be financed by the Asia Foundation. The Director of the National Police College in Taiwan has requested Mr. Turner to come in order to discuss a program of exchanging faculty members between Michigan State University and the National Police College. The Asia Foundation may be interested in supporting such a program. The groundwork for Mr. Turner's visit was laid by Mr. Arthur Brandstatter, head of the Police Administration Department at MSU, East Lansing, who, at the request of Taiwanese officials, stopped at the National Police College in the course of his recent visit to Vietnam. The Director of the National Police College has indicated that USOM officials in Taiwan are also interested in discussing the possible exchange of faculty members.

On September 7 I plan to fly to Manila for a 3-day visit to the Institute of Public Administration of the University of the Philippines. I have been in touch with Mr. Carlos Ramos, the Director of the Institute, and he is familiar with the purpose of my trip. In connection with the NIA-MSUG current survey of future needs of the NIA, we believe that the comparative experience of the Philippines Institute will be highly useful. I propose to review the experience of the Institute in such areas as the following:

1. the place of in-service training in a public administration institute;
2. incentives for developing research capabilities of professors;

3. the relationship between instructors' teaching responsibilities and outside duties;
4. the development of a program of graduate study leading to a graduate degree;
5. the financing of a union library catalog for an institute of public administration;
6. the relationship between an institute and a university of which it is a part;
7. the relationship between ^{an} institute and government agencies, domestic and foreign; and, finally,
8. the improvement of communications among public administration institutes in Southeast Asia.

Obviously this is too long a list of questions for a profound examination of each. My knowledge of the situation at the NIA is sufficient, however, to enable me to make some comparative judgments quickly, and I am hopeful that the visit to the Philippines will substantially help us in our own study.

With kindest personal regards, I remain

Sincerely yours,

Lloyd D. Musolf
