CONFERENCE 2001 (20-21 APRIL)

Deadlines: Paper Proposals - 15 March - Hotel Reservations - 30 March (details Inside)

GREAT NEWS FROM THE ARCHIVE

The Vietnam Archive at Texas Tech University received two distinguished honors in December 2000. First, on 17 December, the Vietnam Archive was notified that federal funding for a Virtual Vietnam Archive, under a grant from the Institute of Museum and Library Services within the Department of Education, was approved. The Virtual Vietnam Archive is a project to digitize all of the non-copyright material in the Vietnam Archive. Then, on 20 December, the archive received a significant collection of material from the late Admiral Elmo R. Zumwalt, Jr. USN, former commander of the United States Naval Forces in Vietnam, 1968 to 1970 and Chief of Naval Operations from 1970 to 1974.

THE VIRTUAL VIETNAM ARCHIVE

The federal government has allocated $461,000 to the Vietnam Archive to create the Virtual Vietnam Archive. With this project, Texas Tech University will significantly expand the research support offered by making available its non-copyright materials in electronic format to all with an Internet connection.

The Virtual Vietnam Archive will enable scholars, students and all interested in this remarkable period to conduct primary research directly from universities, schools, libraries, and homes. Of equal importance, it will enable Vietnam veterans - those who actually served - to access records that might be of importance to them in their continuing efforts to understand their own experiences. It will facilitate the research and writing of participants' memoirs, and will give high school and college students an important and authoritative source of information as they seek to understand the complexities of the Vietnam War.

Our next newsletter will provide more details on the Virtual Vietnam Archive project.

THE ZUMWALT COLLECTION

The Vietnam Archive also received a very significant collection in December 2000, the post-war personal papers of Admiral Elmo R. Zumwalt, Jr. USN. Admiral Zumwalt served as Chairman of the Vietnam Center's National Advisory Council from its inception in 1990 until his death on January 2, 2000. He served as Commander, US Naval Forces, Vietnam, from 1968 to 1970 and Chief of Naval Operations from 1970 to 1974.

The Admiral Elmo R. Zumwalt, Jr. collection contains a wide variety of information on the post Vietnam War career of the Admiral. The collection includes a large section of documents, studies and correspondence regarding the effects of Agent Orange used during the Vietnam War and the Agent Orange Coordinating Committee. Other notable sections in the collection include a large number of photographs from the Vietnam War, awards and certificates presented to the Admiral in appreciation of his service to his country and the United States Navy, the Admiral's post war correspondence and writings.

FROM THE DIRECTOR

The recent months have been exceedingly busy ones for the Vietnam Center and Vietnam Archive at Texas Tech University. As reported on the front page of this newsletter, the Vietnam Center received Federal FY 2001 funding to begin our long-planned "Virtual Vietnam Archive" project. As soon as that funding is actually received at Texas Tech University, the Vietnam Archive team, under Dr. Ron Frankum's very able direction, will begin the project, which is expected to last several years. Initial portions of the "Virtual Vietnam Archive," we plan, will be posted to the web within a few months of the beginning of the project, and additional collections added as work progresses. The end result will be an easily key-word searchable archive containing all non-copyrighted materials held in our archive. A special note of thanks is due to Congressmen Larry Combest and Sam Johnson, who sponsored the funding. Other Vietnam veterans in Congress expressed strong support for the project. Our ultimate goal with this project is to grant researchers, Vietnam veterans, and the general public free and easy access to the records now being collected at Texas Tech University.

The arrival of Admiral Elmo R. Zumwalt's papers and memorabilia in December was a time of reflection for all of us at the Vietnam Center and Archive who had worked closely with the Admiral over the years since he became Chairman of our National Advisory Council in 1990. We were all greatly saddened by his passing, but we are honored that we have been entrusted with the preservation of an important part of his legacy. The Archive staff has been working hard to produce a finding guide to the approximately sixty linear feet of archival material in the collection. That work will be completed in the not too distant future, and will be posted to the archive web site: <http://www.lib.ttu.edu/vietnam>.

At the welcoming reception for the 2001 Vietnam conference, we will have a small ceremony opening an exhibit of some of the Admiral's artifacts and papers. These materials will remain on display in the International Cultural Center during the conference. At the same time, we will take this occasion to recognize the Admiral's family, many of whom will be with us for the reception and the conference that follows. We take this occasion to invite all of our readers, and particularly those already planning to attend the conference, to attend the welcoming reception, which will begin at 6:00 p.m. on Thursday, April 19th at the International Cultural Center at Texas Tech University [located at 6th & Indiana Avenue in Lubbock].

It is time now also to register for the conference, which will be conducted on Friday and Saturday, 20-21 April. There is considerable competition for hotel rooms in Lubbock, and a number of other conferences are planned for that weekend. I urge early registration for the conference and early hotel registration. Due to caterers' requirements, we must provide final numbers of participants in the conference banquet on the evening of Friday, 20 April, before the conference actually begins. Therefore, if you wish to attend the banquet, we must have your banquet registration in advance. Attire for the banquet will be business suit, tuxedo, or appropriate military uniform.

Having celebrated my 60th birthday last year, the fact has hit home to me that the productive years remaining for those of us of the Vietnam generation are not entirely unlimited. If we are to ensure that future generations of Americans have available all the evidence necessary to reach their own conclusions about the turbulent events of the 1960s and 1970s, we must redouble our efforts to gather those materials and ensure they are in safe-keeping in a professional archive. I address this message not just to those who served in the US Armed Forces in Vietnam, but also to those who opposed the war, to those who served in the Armed Forces of the Republic, and also to those who stayed home and waited for [and worried about] loved ones serving in Vietnam. If we, the Vietnam Generation, have one final duty, it should be that we leave behind a fair and balanced record. The Vietnam Archive is dedicated to preserving all aspects of the Vietnam experience. Please help us to be true to history by preserving whatever pieces of that history are currently in your possession.

As we finalize plans for our "Virtual Vietnam Archive," please reconsider the disposition of the papers, photos, maps, and other Vietnam-related materials you have been storing in your attics, closets, garages for the past quarter-century. By donating those materials to the Vietnam Archive at Texas Tech, you will ensure that they will be carefully preserved and made available to researchers around the world through our new program. The Vietnam Archive will gratefully accept any materials in virtually any format. For more details, please contact the Vietnam Archive at (806) 742-9010 or by e-mail at livna@lib.ttu.edu.
