"THE INSIDERS"
P.O. Box 162
Vienna, VA 22180

Dear Insiders,

IT IS OUR BELIEF THAT, IN LIGHT OF EVIDENCE, WE LEFT LIVE AMERICANS IN CAPTIVITY AGAINST THEIR WILL IN SOUTHEAST ASIA AS PRISONERS OF WAR. WE SEEK TO SECURE THEIR RELEASE.

PLEASE DUPLICATE THIS NEWSLETTER AND PASS IT OUT TO YOUR FRIENDS.

HISTORY. "The Insider" is a publication whose sole purpose is to publish information about the live POWs in Southeast Asia. The publication started in January 1982. The objective is to inform the American public of the proof that live POWs are still being held in Southeast Asia and to secure their release. The initiatives taken by the Insiders have shaken loose some alarming findings that have gained the publication the reputation as a critic of the Administration's position on the live POWs. "The Insider" is opposed to any faction that does not support the rescue of live POWs or the negotiated settlement that will return all the live POWs and permit as full an accounting of MIAs as is possible.

A SPECIAL THANKS to all the people who have helped with the continued efforts of "The Insiders".

Attached you will find four lists of missing Americans who were lost in Southeast Asia. All of these lists were taken from US government records.

The first list is from a 1979 military listing of missing men, but it represents the MIAs who's names were placed in Category #1 where the US government felt that our enemy would be in a position to know what happened to these persons.

For example, look at #22, D.L. Hrdlicka who was lost in May 1965 and the status/remark was in July 1966, "Pravada" published a photo of him, in captivity. The Soviets as well as other Eastern block countries were advisors to the North Vietnamese and had a photographer take the photo, transported the film to the Soviet Union, and published the picture. The enemy definitely had intimate knowledge of his captivity and it was public knowledge that he was a POW. Yet, at Operation Homecoming in 1973 he was not released and in suosequent releases of voluntary stay-behinds, collaborators, AWOLs, and the unpunished deserters, he was not released. In fact, all 170 of the Category 1s were never released alive, except Robert Garwood. Garwood states he saw 60 to 70 of these men.

On item #45, E.D. Reilly, we found his ID card and his interrogation papers in enemy records. #67, M. Nolan (a well known defector) was seen November 2, 1973 alive after the Vietnamese said they let all Americans go in Operation Homecoming.

Several theories exist that label all remaining Americans in Southeast Asia as collaborators and defectors. On item #66, E.C. Weatherman, for example, the Vietnamese told us he died in captivity but he was seen sitting in a jeep in Hanoi in 1976. His story is one where a fake execution liberated him to go live with his wife who was a Viet Cong sympathizer. M. Nolan and E.C. Weatherman were not on the list of names provided by the Department of Defense to the Vietnam Memorial Committee to be engraved as casualties of the Vietnam War.

I do not for one minute doubt that some men who loved their Vietnamese families stayed behind after the war voluntarily. But, what I am extremely upset and concerned about are those men who involuntarily were kept back by the Vietnamese. They were in captivity, POWs, prisoners of war, never released. Those who were captured, who still serve today, should not be labeled collaborators or defectors.

It is irrational and irresponsible to assume that #58, R.W. Dodge, who was dropping bombs on enemy targets in May 1967, bailed out of his burning plane over North Vietnam because he wanted to defect. A picture of Dodge later appeared publicly in a newspaper in Paris, France showing him covered with bandages and surrounded by enemy soldiers with weapons. Dodge clearly did not defect, as is the case of all pilots or backseaters whose planes went down after the enemy was shooting at them. These highly educated pilots would not make a conscious decision to stay behind, live in mud huts, and plow fields behind water buffalo.

Several other examples on this Catecory #1 list should peak your curiosity. On #97, J.D. Erskine, lost in November 1968, several sketches of him were later found in captured VC documents.

Please look this list over closely as it is what our military intelligence experts, DIA (Defense Intelligence Agency), admitted publicly about MIAs in Southeast Asia.

DIA kept some information back from the public and did not tell or admit several inequities. Let's look at six people who were carried in Category #2 eventhough the US military intelligence system had information that they were alive, but never admitted this fact. In some cases the US military intelligence agents were instructed to track, hunt, and kill these US POWs. In other cases the military intelligence sytem "covered up" that they knew these Americans were alive in captivity, that they were being watched in captivity, that we knew exactly where they were being kept, and at the end of the war the US military intelligence closed their eyes, walked away, and never tried to secure these men's release.

1. E-7, USN, Michael L. Laporte
   lost 9/5/67, still MIA

2. E-3, USMC Robert R. Garwood
   lost 9/28/65, released 1/21/79

3. E-4, USA, John C. Sexton
   lost 8/12/69, released 10/8/71

Laporte was lost in South Vietnam and lost in a helicopter drop. He was carried in Catecory #2. However, according to one source, he was a well known defector. One Marine recon team looked for him for six months. He was on the list to be shot if seen.

Robert Garwood, who was carried as a POW in Category #1, was also on the list to be killed if sighted, according to a CCN team member. On December 2, 1985, the Supreme Court refused to hear Mr. Garwood's appeal of charges that he had collaborated with the enemy, and on 12/3/85 he was discharged from the USMC.

Sexton talked to me by telephone last week and was lost off of an APC in action in South Vietnam near An Loc. He indicated that the military commanders brought in an air strike on his position right after his capture. He also indicated that while in captivity he knew of two other live and healthy US POWs to whom he talked, and one of them was James R. Ray. When Sexton came home he said the US authorities really didn't show much interest in his knowledge of US POWs.

What did these three POWs have in common, Laporte, Garwood, and Sexton? The US military ordered them to be killed in captivity, by US soldiers. Bombs were dropped on their positions, the POW camps they were held in were bombed, and in two cases 'kill teams' hunted them.

1. E-8, William B. Hunt, 11/4/66, Category #2, South Vietnam - ground

2. O-5, John W. Held, 4/17/68, Category #2, South Vietnam, A37A

3. W-3, Jerry P. Clark, 12/15/65, Category #2, South Vietnam, OlD

A Defector came to US military intelligence and generated the following intelligence report dated September 15, 1970. In summary, he specifically identified Jerry Clark from Volume I of 'Pre-capture Photos'. Several other Asian reports correlated to Clark, as well as Held and Hunt, as being POWs. This defector also identified Held and Hunt as being POWs with Clark. Clark's L-19 aircraft went down over water, he swam ashore and took to the hills, evading capture, according to villagers who saw him come ashore. Clark's status was changed to "presumed dead" (PFOD) on 10/26/73; Hunt was PFOD on 4/7/76; and Held was PFOD 8/21/75. None of these men were ever put in Category #1 eventhough US intelligence had confirmed evidence that proved these men to be held alive in captivity. No direct negotiations took place trying to secure these military men's release by the State Department or the "Peace" negotiator Henry Kissinger.

Now, let's look at list #2 entitled "Photo Comparisons". This list is compiled from photo comparisons done for DIA by the CIA (Central Intelligence Agency). Basically, DIA came upon a photo, post-capture, and provided it to CIA asking if they could look back in their records, and identify the person in the photo. CIA then conducted a photo analysis, record search, and comparison. CIA then provided a written report to DIA. These names are taken from the CIA reports with correlations or possible correlations to these specific names. Some 44 of these names are still MIA.

Note the most important factor here is that these pictures were taken after these men were captured by the enemy and while they were alive in captivity. Thirteen of these men identified in post-capture were released and six who died while in captivity have had their remains returned. What happened to the rest of these men who were clearly alive in captivity? Most of these photos were provided by the enemy in a 1969 Christmas film. Where are these men? Are they still alive and in captivity?

Where did the DIA obtain photos #61, #25, #23, #3, #45, #52, #88A, #88B, #88C, #31, #82, #20, #29, #96, and #33. How on earth would Defense intelligence come by this batch of photos? Photos of live Americans in captivity! Live Americans never released! Some of these pictures were obtained as aerial photographs taken by spy planes, or drones. Some of these photos were taken by Special Forces who hung out of helicopters and using a camera, took the pictures. Several former Special Forces people have come forward and testified that they took such photos.

Working out of the US Embassy in Saigon, a group called CCN (Command and Control, North), took ground pictures of US POWs alive in captivity. They entered Laos and North Vietnamese sanctuaries, snuck in close to American POWs, and took their pictures. Several former CCN people have come forward who have taken these pictures.

Robert Garwood's father, for example, was shown a photo taken at about 200 meters on the ground of his son being marched down a trail and asked if he could identify his son. This photo was clearly taken by a CCN team.

This list of post-capture pictures was shown to Smith and McIntire who filed suit against the US government in September 1985 for failing to rescue live POWs. They looked down this list and could identify several Americans who they had collected intelligence on, between 1961 and 1984, who are, or were, still being held in captivity, alive.

Currently, the FBI does photo comparisons for DIA and handwriting analysis. Barry Mones, the FBI's Chief of the Special Photograph Interpretation Section has two thick folders of photo comparisons and handwriting analysis in the safe behind his desk at FBI headquarters in Washington, DC. These files are the current proof that Americans are still held alive in captivity in Southeast Asia. Contained in these files are fingerprint analysis reports on sets of fingerprints obtained under the Reagan Administration. These fingerprints were obtained by anti-communist resistance groups who smuggled fingerprinting paper into POW camps and actually got fingerprints from US POWs who want to be rescued and come home. One must have a "Q" clearance to see these files.

Moving to list #3, there are 30 DIA military analists' reports where Asian reports or friendly foreign intelligence agencies saw live Americans in captivity and reported this information to DIA. DIA then correlated this raw intelligence data to US POWs. Many of these Americans are still missing but DIA verified, through their own analysts, that these Americans were captured. Why did the Nixon Administration not ask for these Americans to be released? Look at some of these names and see if there are some unanswered questions in your mind.

For Charles E. Shelton, #26, there are eight Asian reports that DIA correlates to him and he is the only US POW still listed officially as a prisoner of war. He is carried in Category #1 but CIA did no photo comparisons of Mr. Shelton for DIA. Reports have surfaced that Shelton was rescued in Operation "Duck Soup" in Laos, then turned back over to the enemy by the CIA.

#27, Capt. H. Fors was lost in Laos 12/22/67 and CIA correlated photo #61 to him on 9/30/70 for DIA but he was carried as Category #2. Asians reported him alive in March 1972, according to DIA, yet an administrative procedure called "Presumptive Finding of Death" under the Carter Administration, presumed that he died.

On #19, Donald G. Cook, MIA December 31, 1964, DIA had an Asian report dated April 1965 correlated to him. He was carried in Category #1 by DIA because his name appeared on the PRG DIC (died in captivity) list as having died on December 8, 1967. On September 3, 1968 CIA said that post-capture photos #25, #23, and #3 correlated to Mr. Cook. How could we have a picture of him alive if he is supposed to be dead?

Kurt C. McDonald, #28, was reported by an Asian defector on April 11, 1969 as being alive in a POW camp, and this defector nickel out his picture. On March 17, 1969 CIA did a photo comparison on Mr. McDonald for DIA correlating photos #11, #20, and #29 to him. McDonald was carried by DIA in a Category #4 status and the Carter Administration simply declared him dead, eventhough in 1964 when he was last seen, he was turning into a valley. Eventhough he was reported alive in captivity years after his loss and DIA had a photo of him alive in captivity taken one month before a defector came over to our side and said he was still alive, his status was never changed from Category #4 - thought to be dead - to Category #1 as a confirmed POW.

Is there any indication on these three lists that any hanky panky was going on regarding our military intelligence community and these missing men? Absolutely!! Many men we knew were alive in captivity were written off as dead. There seems to be a willingness to accept live casualties as a price of war. Currently DEA (Drug Enforcement Agency) only conducts "head count" missions on a covert basis inside of Laos simply to keep track of how many POWs are still held, but the current administration doesn't want to hear the results.

With total disregard for family and friends, military men who were put to work in Vietnam and lost there, were considered casualties. The wives, parents, and children were considered excess baggage by the military. Once insurance benefits were prematurely paid to the families and intelligence information surfaced that these men were still alive as POWs, no attempt was made to correct this injustice or re-aggrevate an emotional crisis. A lot of families buried their loved ones because the US government would "not" lie about their loss. Everyone had a patriotic belief that their government would "not" lie to them.

Once the US government and the families buried these live casualties, the Vietnamese had no trouble in bonding them into slaves. Some were sent to the Soviet Union as slaves in the gulag for a ten year sentence and some were kept in Vietnam for psychological experiments sometimes conducted by Palestinian troops sent to Vietnam for training.

A puzzling phenomenon brought to light by this list of Asian reports correlated by DIA to US POWs, are those names who are identified by DIA as POWs but are not on any known list of MIAs. How is it possible for DIA to correlate Asian reports to live US POWs held in North Vietnamese POW camps who are not listed as MIAs?

There must be a secondary, unpublished list of MIAs held closely by DIA!! On this list would be Air America, CIA, and covert operations people who were conducting secret operations in Southeast Asia. Also on this list would be known cross-overs, collaborators, defectors, and AWOL servicemen.

Moving on to list #4, "Sightings of Dead Americans", several Asians reported to DIA that they saw 'dead' Americans. DIA took these sightings and correlated them to Americans lost on that day, at that location. Interesting to note is that of the 23 Americans listed on this report, only three remains were returned and four of these Americans were released alive. How could DIA unwillingly and unknowingly correlate sightings of dead Americans, lost in the Vietnam War, to men who actually came home alive?

During a war, people die, innocent civilians and military soldiers involved in the conflict. Death is a part of war, as is winning and losing. 58,000 Americans died during the Vietnam War, brutally. Some died in captivity from disease and torture. Some died swiftly as a result of the violent action.

The enemy sometimes decapitated the US dead and put their heads on poles around their camps. Special Operations Groups (SOG) observed this brutal dismemberment in Laotian sanctuaries near Vietnamese strongholds and reported it.

Others willingly died by calling in B-52 strikes on their own positions as the enemy approached. Donald Pugh, for example, parachuted safely to the ground after his plane was shot down in Laos but radioed for an air strike on his location when the enemy was approaching.

Many aircraft that carried highly classified electronic gear were bombed by US aircraft if it was felt that no one survived and the electronic equipment would fall into the hands of the enemy. Recovery teams were inserted in Laos to recover onboard electronic hardware or were given orders to destroy it on the ground. Many dead Americans were laid out in body bags to be recovered by CCN teams in Laos but the teams came under fire and were shot out by the enemy. Subsequently, an airstrike would be called in on that location. Several Americans were captured and then executed by their captors and buried in unmarked graves. On November 19, 1967 in a fight to take hill 875 a 750 pound bomb fell short of its target and landed directly in the center of C Company of the 2nd Battalion killing 42 men. There were not very many pieces left.

Yes, there were many people who died during the war, but there were those who survived and were in captivity that have not yet been released. The live POWs were, and are, brave warriors who fought the spread of communism in Southeast Asia. These live POWs are unlike the weak politicians who refuse to rescue them.

The live POWs who still survive in captivity today are like the Medal of Honor holder, retired Master Sargeant Roy Benavidez, BRAVE!! To point out how brave, please read the following account of what Sgt. Benavidez did to win the Medal of Honor.

"Get us out of here! For God's sake, get us out!" The voice coming over the radio was frantic. A twelve-man Special Forces reconnaissance team had been inserted forty-eight kilometers inside Cambodia on a top-secret intelligence gathering mission but had come under fire from a much larger North Vietnamese force. Now the team leader was calling the base at Loc Ninh urgently to request helicopter extraction.

Special Forces Staff Sargeant Roy P. Benavidez, standing inside the radio shack at Loc Ninh that day, May 2, 1968, was amazed at the sound of gunfire coming over the radio. " There was so much shooting", he remembered, "it sounded like a popcorn machine". Benavidez rushed to the helicopter pad as the first chopper returned from Cambodia. The wounded door gunner spilled out of the aircraft and died in Benavidez's arms. A few minutes later Benavidez jumped into a UH-1 "Huey" helicopter as it readied for take off. "Where are you going?", asked the surprised pilot. "I'm going with you", Benavidez said.

Over the border, enemy fire around the men on the ground was too heavy to allow the Huey to land near them. The pilot reached another clearing seventy-five yards away, where Benavidez told him to drop him off and wait for his call on the radio after he had reached the besieged men. Benavidez crossed himself, jumped ten feet to the ground, and started running toward the American position.

Enemy fire poured at him from trees and bushes all around. Benzvidez felt the bullets cut into his legs and face. The fire knocked him down several times, but he kept on going. "When you're shot, you feel a burning pain, like you've been touched with hot metal", Benavidez explained later. "But the fear that you experience is worse - and that's what keeps you going."

Reaching the team, Benavidez found four men already dead, and the other eight lying wounded in the grass. He set off a smoke grenade to mark the spot for the helicopter and ordered the men to provide covering fire for the landing. When the helicopter touched down, a few Americans climbed aboard while Benavidez ran to the body of the team leader to retrieve classified documents and a camera.

While returning, Benavidez was shot in the back and knocked down; looking up, he saw the helicopter crash and burn after being hit by sniper fire. He ran to the aircraft and pulled out two crewmen, then led them and the remaining six men to the edge of the pickup zone where they drew a small defensive perimeter.

Benavidez called for additional air support on the radio and distributed water and ammunition to the men. He gave the wounded shots of morphine, injecting two doses into his own veins. Then he was hit in the thigh by another bullet. By now he was bleeding heavily from bullet wounds all over his body, and the blood from his head wounds made it practically impossible for him to see. He could hear the moans of the men above the gunfire. One man whose leg had been blown off begged Benavidez to kill him. The Sergeant tried to silence them. "Shut up", he said, "We don't have permission to die!"

Benavidez and the others were on the ground almost eight hours. Several helicopters were shot down trying to evacuate the men, but finally one got close enough to land. After taking some men to the aircraft, Benavidez was about to pick up another when he was struck on the back of the head by a rifle butt. Wheeling around, he saw a North Vietnamese soldier thrusting a bayonet toward his mid-section. Benavidez grabbed the blade, cutting open his own hand, pulled the man to him and stabbed him with his knife.

Stumbling back to the helicopter, Benavidez helped load the wounded onto the aircraft, pulling in anyone he could make out through the blood dripping into his eyes. He picked up a rifle and killed two enemy soldiers as they charged the ship. Finally he was pulled aboard and collapsed near the pile of bodies in the back, holding his intestines in with his hands. As the Huey rose, blood trickled out its side door.

The helicopter made it back to Loc Ninh with seventeen men, both dead and alive. As the bodies were unloaded, a doctor thought that Benavidez was dead, and a body bag was prepared for him. Unable to move or speak, Benavidez spit into the startled doctor's face. The doctor ordered him flown to Saigon for treatment.

Benavidez slowly recovered from his wounds and was discharged from the Army in 1976 on 80% medical disability. It took until 1980 to locate the sole surviving member of the team that he had saved living in the Fiji Islands. On February 24, 1981 President Ronald Reagan awarded Roy Benavidez the Medal of Honor.

This account illustrates the caliber of the live POWs who survive today in captivity. He is brave, and he survives to be rescued.

WHAT HAVE YOU DONE TODAY TO BRING HOME A LIVE POW?

* ANNOUNCEMENT *

"THE INSIDERS" has decided to distribute it's publication at $2.00 per issue/copy, effective with the December 1985 issue. An issue of "The Insiders" will be published each month, containing information about live POWs held as captives in Southeast Asia.

Enclosed is $24.00 for one year's subscription to "The Insiders", a newsletter on live POWs who are held in captivity resulting from the war in Southeast Asia. Please send me a subscription to "The Insiders".
